

March 7

On this day in 1849, scientist Luther Burbank was born. Burbank was a botanist, or someone who studies plant life. He was known for developing new types of flowers and plants. Do you think it's important that scientist develop new types of plant life? Why or why not?